Article Information

Beautiful thick nubuck with a tough grain image. This aniline leather is "chopped" on the hair side of the hide, this means a rough sanding of the hide and this creates a tough but soft surface. Collection Chopper is rough and the various natural characteristics accentuate this, these characteristics must be visibly processed. During tanning, the leather is treated with a moisture and dirt-repellent product, but in use nubuck leather will "sympathize" with the end user. Extremely suitable for leather goods, residential- and project market. Available from stock, from half a hide.

Additonal information nubuck leather

The leather is sensitive to the oils produced by human skin and direct contact with the leather can leave blemishes. These marks can be gently buffed out with a very fine sandpaper or a suede brush but the material will always continue to keep the attractive characteristics.

Additionally, the material is also sensitive to various types of light which may cause discoloration. It is therefore not advisable to place nubuck in direct daylight.
